The New Trio

The New Trio

Ch. 1: Introduction

A/N: What's up guys. Ok, so I've wanted to do a smut fanfic focusing on my own characters, and I'd already created a few, so I came up with this. There will be some plot lines, some quests, and some actual detail in this, but it'll still mainly be a story full of fucking. This chapter won't have any, it'll just be to get the ball rolling. Let me know of any pairings you'd like me to do. Hope you enjoy!

Percy looked down from the deck of the Argo II at the rocky terrain below. He, Annabeth, Leo, Piper, Jason, and Nico were all onboard, hovering 20,000 feet above the Grand Canyon. They'd been told by Chiron that Coach Hedge had picked up the scent of three more demigods. It was their job to collect them, hopefully without much trouble.

"Can't believe we're back here again." Piper muttered under her breath, obviously remembering the last time she'd been here with Jason and Leo. The three teens must've been at the same school as they'd been, because the ship currently hovered over the exact spot where Jason, Piper, and Leo had been rescued by Hedge and the other demigods.

Leo's voice came in over the intercom.

_"Good afternoon ladies and gentlemen. This is your Supreme Admiral Commander in Chief Leo speaking. I would just like to say thank you for choosing Valdez Airways this lovely afternoon. Also, I've spotted a large group of teenagers directly below us where the three newbies probably are. I've taken the liberty of starting our decent as we speak, and we should be at their level within five minutes. Oh, and there's a few hellhounds closing in on them. Again, thank you for fly/sailing with Valdez Airwaves."_

The group had been laughing at his stupidity for most of the PSA, but snapped to attention when hellhounds were mentioned. They scrambled to get their armor on and weapons ready. The guys went around loading the new weapons on the main deck, which were high powered turrets that fired Celestial Bronze. As they drew within a few hundred feet, Jason spotted five hellhounds climbing up the canyon towards the teens. Percy, Jason, Annabeth, Piper, and Nico each sat down behind one of the five turrets that lined their side of the ship. They all zoomed in as best they could on the pack of monsters, then opened fire.

"Woooo! Suck it hellhounds!" Percy yelled from his gun. Annabeth rolled her eyes. Her boyfriend was such a Seaweed Brain.

In no time the five mutts were turned to dust. The group was about to leave their stations when Nico spotted something.

"Guys." he called out. "There's more."

The group rushed to the edge to see. Sure enough, a large pack of about twenty hounds could be seen coming through the museum towards the kids. It was clear which three were the demigods, as they were the only ones who'd backed up to the edge of the glass platform. One of them glanced over the railing, probably debating whether or not it was a survivable jump. She then glanced up and saw the Argo II. She got the attention of her friends, who quickly looked up at them. From the zoomed in view of his turret, Nico saw that they were terrified. They probably thought the hellhounds and the Argo II were on the same side kidnapping them or something.

Just then, the pack of hounds broke through the glass doors onto the platform. The three teens screamed as the pack raced towards them, not even bothering with the rest of the kids.

"Fire!" yelled Jason, even though no command was needed. The group opened fire on the advancing pack, quickly killing most of its members. Only four remained after the initial attack, and they hid themselves in the pack of kids. Nico smirked, the dogs apparently didn't know Celestial Bronze couldn't affect mortals, they were no safer in the pack of kids than they were out in the open.

The teens opened fire once more, bullets ripping through the group of teens, who apparently thought the hellhounds were puppies or something. They were soon shocked to see them all drop dead, however, as they were quickly shot.

Finally the Argo stopped descending, its main deck level with the platform. The five demigods jumped out onto the glass floor. Piper quickly went around charmspeaking the memories of dogs being shot out of the mortals' minds. Percy and the other three turned to face the other three.

There were two girls and one boy. They all looked to be around the same age (17) as Percy and the gang, maybe a year younger or so. One girl had brown/blonde hair, and was quite tan. She had a tight body that quickly gained the attention of the guys, and nicely sized tits that held their attention. What stood out, other than her tits, were her eyes. They were the same sea-green as Percy.

The other girl was slimmer than the first, built more like a gymnast, and looked a bit younger. The group knew immediately that she was a daughter of Athena. She looked like a younger, less developed Annabeth. Same blonde hair, same same stormy grey eyes. The only difference was that she was a bit more tan. She was less developed in that her curves weren't quite as good as they probably would be. However, she also had a great pair of boobs that looked even better on her smaller frame.

Finally, there was the only male in the trio. The girls, and even the guys, found him quite attractive. He had dark brown, almost black hair that contrasted his pale skin, navy blue eyes, and was quite well built for his age.

Percy stepped forward and stuck out his hand.

"Hey there, I'm Percy Jackson."

The guy cautiously shook his hand. "Myles Remis. What the hell just happened? Why were there a bunch of deranged mutts that just got slaughtered by you guys that went unnoticed by everyone else but us?"

Percy sighed. "This is going to be hard to believe, but you three are demigods."

The smaller girl cocked her head. "Demigods? Like the children of Greek gods?"

They all nodded. The three newbies all looked either confused or skeptical.

"Look," said Percy. "We'll explain everything else on the ship. We've got to get you three out of here. It's no longer safe for you now that you know who you are."

"We can't just leave." said Myles. "Our coach will report us as missing, and then-"

"Actually kid, your coach knows all about you, so there will be know need to worry." Gleason Hedge showed up behind Percy and his friends, accompanied by Piper. "I told these guys you lot were special, so they're here to pick you up and take you somewhere safe."

The three still looked skeptical, but relented. They climbed aboard the ship, leaving Hedge and their schoolmates behind.

"So," said Percy once they'd left. "I think introductions are necessary. Like I said earlier, I'm Percy Jackson, son of Poseidon."

Annabeth stepped forward. "I'm Annabeth Chase, daughter of Athena."

Jason was next. "Names Jason Grace, son of Zeus."

Piper stepped up next. "Piper McLean, daughter of Aphrodite."

The green-eyed girl opened her mouth to speak, but Piper cut her off. "Yes, and daughter of actor Tristan McLean."

The green-eyed girl closed her mouth, slightly red.

Nico went next. "I'm Nico Di' Angelo, son of Hades."

_"And this is your Supreme Admiral Commander in Chief Leo Valdez, son of Hephaestus."_

The three jumped at the unexpected voice, causing everyone else to laugh.

They regained their composure, then introduced themselves.

"I'm Taryn Harris." said the green-eyed girl.

"Kaia Martinez" said the blonde.

"Again, I'm Myles Remis." said the brunette guy.

The trip back to Camp Half-Blood was spent explaining to the teens who they were, what they would be experiencing, and getting to know them, which took an unexpected turn.

"So what do you like to do in your free time?" asked Percy, sitting in a chair below deck.

The three looked at each other and giggled. "Well, one thing we really enjoy doing a lot is..."

"Fucking!" said Kaia enthusiastically.

The gang sat their, jaws dropped at how open they were with it. The trio shrugged, not really concerned with them knowing.

"So...are you guys just gonna start sleeping around once we get to camp?" asked Annabeth, obviously not really comfortable with the idea of letting three sex-addicted teens, who were all quite attractive, loose on the camp.

Taryn shrugged. "I mean, if there's people who I find attractive, probably."

The other two nodded in agreement. Soon after that, Leo came on over the loudspeaker announcing their arrival at camp. They landed right outside Thalia's Pine, and soon had a crowd of people swarming to see the new arrivals. They all stepped off, and were soon met by Chiron, who quickly assigned Percy and the gang the task of showing their new camp mates around. As they left, and as the crowd dispersed, Annabeth noticed Taryn and Kaia checking out some of the Apollo kids playing basketball, while Drew and the other Aphrodite girls practically drooled over Miles. Yep, things were going to get a lot different soon.

That night at the campfire, everyone kept watching the new trio. They all wanted to see when they got claimed. They sang their usual songs, but the fire glowed a unique shade of red for the camp's excitement and tension. Finally, during some weird song about a turtle being ridden through Tokyo, there was a flash of light above Kaia's head. Everyone turned to see a grey owl above the newest daughter of Athena. Everyone congratulated her, but were more anxious for Miles and Taryn, who no one had a clue about, unlike Kaia, who they assumed was Athena due to her similar looks with Annabeth. Soon after that, a bright light shone around Miles. Everyone looked up to see a golden lyre floating above him, the sign of Apollo.

Another twenty minutes of tense waiting went by before a light shine above Taryn's head. Everyone looked at her, some with awe, some with confusion. Taryn looked up to see a blue trident floating above her. Percy broke through the crowd and smirked.

"Well, guess I've got a new sister."
